Failure and Suspension of Jay Cooke & Co—Intense Excitement in the New York Stock Market—Other Failures.

CHICAGO, Sept 18.—Private dispatches from New York confirm the report of the failure of Jay Cooke & Co, but do not state the extent or particulars of the failure.

NEW YORK, Sept 18.—Jay Cooke & Co announce their suspension in consequence of large advances made to sustain their Philadelphia house and the heavy drain made upon their own deposits.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 18.—The great firm of Jay Cooke & Co has suspended. A crowd is now collected around their place of business.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—There is great excitement on the street in consequence of the announcement of the failure of Jay Cooke & Co. The question generally asked is, "Who next?" Stocks begin to tumble generally, caused as much by apprehensions of the future as by the existing condition of affairs. Prominent operators in Wall street attribute the suspension of [illegible] efforts to sustain the Philadelphia house, as to operations in the Northern Pacific Railroad, which, it is said they sought to carry beyond their strength. It is [illegible] the Life Insurance Company with which Jay Cooke & Co are connected, may have to go under. It is said that Jay Cooke lost large[illegible] in the recent gold movement. Some say they are unable to make any further statement, save that they expect to resume business in a short time. There is a [illegible] breaking of stocks of from one to ten per cent under the rush to sell. Great excitement continues. Western Union fell from 88½ to 78½; New York Central from 90½ to 87½; Wabash from 56½ to 51½; Northwestern from 55 to 49½; Northwestern preferred, [illegible] 76 to 74½; Rock Island fell from 103 to 99; Pacific Mail from 42½ to 37.

3 P M—The excitement is intense at the Stock Exchange. Vanderbilt stands by his Central, and Lake Shore and Pacific Mail are cared for, but Western Union dropped from 88 to 78½. Money is quiet at 7. No failures other than that of Jay Cooke & Co, are announced. It is said that Jay Cooke McCulloch & Co., of London, are solvent, with a large surplus over all liabilities.

A Philadelphia dispatch says E W Clark & Co have suspended.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The banking house of Jay Cooke & Co, in this city, was closed shortly after noon to-day. The First National [illegible]

The City on Fire.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17, 7.30 P M—The fire is finally under complete control notwithstanding a strong wind, which is blowing from the southwest. The total loss by fire this afternoon is estimated at from $250,000 to $300,000. The total number of buildings destroyed is placed at sixty-four, they being wooden tenements [illegible] occupied mainly as [illegible], stores and shops. The fire originated [illegible] used by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and Northwestern railroads for storing and transfer of hay, situated on the corner of Newberry avenue and the railroad tracks, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. The number of families rendered homeless is disproportioned to the number of houses burned, as nearly [illegible] was crowded to its utmost capacity, many of them containing five or six families.

Another Railway Murder.

COLUMBIA (S C), Sept. 17.—A road paymaster train and the down passenger train on the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad collided near Columbia this morning about 9 o'clock, smashing both locomotives, killing Paymaster W. Elliott Orchard and a colored man, and severely injuring an engineer.

Yellow Fever at Key West.

WASHINGTON, Sept 17.—A dispatch from the commanding officer at Key West reports that all the cases of yellow fever on the Pawnee are some half dozen, who are doing well. The only death other than that of Lieut. Commander Mitchell is that of Paymaster Writer, of the Pawnee, who died on shore. There were no cases of fever in Key West, and the officers and crew of the Saugus were in excellent health.

Yellow Fever at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 17.—The Board of Health report 11 deaths to-day—9 from yellow fever. The Howard Association is in full operation, and the Odd Fellows and Masons are also organizing relief committees. The fever is not believed to be spreading and there are hardly any deaths among persons properly attended.

[illegible] of Things in a Clergyman's Family.

NEW YORK, Sept 17.—The wife of Rev. Mr Wiswell, of St John's Chapel in this city, has [illegible] a portion of her property, which he converted to his own use. She is a daughter of Bishop Bereman, of Trinity Church. She was worth $70,000 when she was married, and charges Wiswell with robbery and infidelity.

[illegible] in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—A large fire is progressing in J[illegible] & Moore's paper and rag warehouse, corner of Sixth and Arch streets.

[illegible] in Boston.

BOSTON, Sept 17.—The San Francisco [illegible] arrived here this morning. The Montgomery Guard with a number of citizens of California, and a file of police, received the Cadets and escorted [illegible] to the Guard's Armory. The Cadets give an exhibition drill [illegible] this afternoon.

"Up in a Balloon."

BUFFALO, Sept 17.—Professor King after landing his editorial passengers at Hornby, Steuben county, started alone in his balloon Buffalo at 2 o'clock this afternoon in a southeasterly course, for as long a trip as it may be possible for him to make.

WHITNEY'S POINT, N. Y., Sept 17.—The balloon "Buffalo" passed over this place at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A paper from the balloon endorsed Professor King, Buffalo, dropped in the Fair Grounds.

The Credit Mobilier Suits.

HARTFORD, Sept 18.—In the United States Circuit Court this morning the Credit Mobilier suits came up. Judges Hunt and Shipman ruled that the motion for dismissal should be heard first, that all arguments on that question with demurrers be closed by to-morrow night. Rowland G Hazard, a defendant, read his own argument before the court holding that the suits were brought under unjust and illegal action.

End of the Chicago Fire.

CHICAGO, Sept 18.—The progress of the fire this afternoon was stopped by the splendid work of the entire fire department. No estimate of loss can be given and it will be some time before particulars are given.

Grant at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Sept 1[illegible].—President Grant did not arrive in the city in time to attend the afternoon session of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland. The meeting was an informal one for business. This evening the President was present. He was greeted with enthusiasm by an immense crowd. The society meets again to-morrow.

Fort Warner to be Abandoned.

WASHINGTON, Sept 18.—First Lieut Winters of the First Cavalry, detailed on special duty to examine into the necessity and requirements of that section of country about Camp Bidwell [illegible] the presence and service of troops, reported that Camp Warner, Oreg, should be abandoned, and the garrison of both posts concentrated at Camp Bidwell or some post built in a more advantageous [illegible] any such be found.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

From Dr. Livingstone.

PARIS, Sept 17.—Mr Stern, an English traveler just arrived from Central Africa, reports that he met Dr Livingstone last June and parted from him on the 1st of July. The Doctor was then in perfect health.

Notable Death.

LONDON, Sept 17.—Earl Hardwicke, Lord Lieutenant of Cambridgeshire, died to-day, aged 71.

Cholera in Paris.

PARIS, Sept 1[illegible].—Deaths from cholera in this city from the 9th to the 15th inst number 1[illegible].

Victor Emanuel in Vienna.

VIENNA, Sept 17.—The King of Italy arrived here to-day and was cordially received by the Emperor and populace.

English Merchants on the Iron Trade.

LONDON, Sept 17.—Corn and iron merchants of Liverpool admit in a letter that iron may be profitably purchased in New York for shipment to England and say they are convinced that the American trade is lost to England.

Cholera in France.

NEW YORK, Sept 18.—Mail advices from Paris of the 5th inst say official documents communicated yesterday to the Paris Academy of Medicine confirm a report that the cholera prevails at Havre. During last month out of 478 deaths 110 are from that malady. At Rouen there are at present twenty deaths a day from the same cause. The epidemic is rapidly spreading throughout Normandy.

CANADA.

More Criminal Carelessness on Railways.

HAMILTON, Sept 17.—A misplaced switch threw the New York express train on the Grand Western railway, from the track this morning. The engineer and fireman were badly injured, and two baggage cars and a coach burned. Baggage saved.

[illegible]

SALT LAKE, Sept 18.—Lieut Geo M Wheeler in charge of the survey of the hundredth meridian, arrived last night from Camp Apache, Arizona. Parties under Lieuts [illegible], Russell and Walker are working from that point towards the Mexican boundary between the hundred and ninth and [illegible] meridian. Lieut Marshall, with a [illegible] party, is engaged about the [illegible] Rio Grande and another topographical [illegible] is at the headwaters of the San [illegible] and Grand rivers, Colorado. A special photographic party with an artist are working in Grand canyon, Colorado. Lieut Hoxie's party for whom two relief parties were sent by Lieut Wheeler from Fort Wingate is undoubtedly at that point. His delay was caused by the loss of mules. It will not impair the season's work at all. All parties will leave the field Dec. 1st. The astronomical portion of the campaign will be more [illegible]ful than was anticipated. [illegible] The central party are still here. There are detachments now at Fort Ellis, Montana, and Trinidad, Colorado. The central station will be moved to Ogden on the completion of the new observatory. The topographical and geological results of the survey in Eastern Arizona are perfectly wonderful. The country discovered abounds with magnificent parks, streams and woods, far exceeding any in Colorado.

[illegible]

[illegible] Pierpont Thayer, the well-known actor on this coast, committed suicide last night by taking laudanum. Every effort was made to save his life but to no avail. He died this morning. Upon the table was found a note with the words: "I test the problem. (Signed) PIERPONT THAYER."

CALIFORNIA.

Wreck of the P. M. S. S. Co.'s Steamer Costa Rica—All Passengers Saved.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 18.—News reached this city at midnight that the P M S S Co.'s steamer Costa Rica ran on the rocks at Point Diablo, about three miles from Fort Point, outside, and was wrecked. A dense fog prevailed at the time. The vessel was running slowly, but under full head of steam when, without any warning, she struck with tremendous force, wrenching the timbers from stem to stern, staving a great hole in her bows through which the water rushed in a torrent. An inspection by the pumps showed water pouring into her hold. After a short time, the vessel's head swung round toward the mouth of the Gate, and in this position she remained. Boats were lowered with all possible expedition and the passengers passed over the side and got into them. The firemen, stokers and others in the engine room also got into a boat with the third officer, Mr Fitzgerald. It was by this boat that tidings of the disaster reached the city. What happened after this boat put off to either the steamer or other boats, it is impossible to say. There was two feet of water in the hold at the time, and the propeller is reported to have been carried away. Three of the crew are said to have been drowned. Capt Lapidge with first officer Squires and the second officer remained on board together with most of the crew. A passenger boat, in which was the third officer, 23 of the men and one passenger, was rowed across the channel. As it drew near the other shore a light was observed. This proved to be the light on Fort Point. This gave Mr Fitzgerald his position, and pulling cautiously along the shore, he reached Meiggs' wharf about midnight and reported the mishap. Immediately on receipt of the intelligence Capt Waddel, Superintendent of the Company, chartered the Rescue to proceed to the steamer. The Rescue was taken around from Washington street wharf to the Company's dock, took on such appliances as were [illegible] and at [illegible] o'clock started. The tugs Goliah and Neptune also went to the scene of the disaster. One has just returned. She reports all passengers saved. She says the steamer has shifted her position, but lies on the rock tilted over. There is a dense fog this morning but no sea. It is the opinion of some that the vessel may be got off. Others think it impossible.

Quartermaster Wm. Harris was brought to the city. He sustained very serious injuries. Other particulars soon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 18.—Measures have been taken to procure a commutation of the sentence of the Modocs—Slow Tucker, Slow Tuck and Boncho. The death warrants of the other Modocs are not yet received at Fort Klamath.

No further news from the wreck of the Costa Rica. Two tugs are at the place of the disaster yet.

In accordance with instructions of President Orton, James Gamble, Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Co, here announces that any funds sent from any point in this State or on the coast for the benefit of the people of Shreveport will be forwarded over the Western Union lines free of charge.

The steamer Senator has gone to the wreck of the Costa Rica. She lies alongside hoisting out a cargo of sugar. A tug arrived a short time since with a portion of the baggage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 18.—All the passengers by the Costa Rica were brought safely to the city this morning. It is thought that one of the crew (a Chinaman) was drowned. Mr Harris, Quartermaster, had his ribs broken while lowering a boat by two men falling upon him. At low tide there was seven and a half feet of water in the hold of the vessel. All the mails and treasure were landed safely.

Passengers overland: Mrs. C. D. Folger and two children, Portland.

Herr Draper and Senor Blanco, the German Commissioners sent out to inquire into the purchase of Lower California, arrived from San Diego on the steamer [illegible] lay.

The steamer Alaska from Panama arrived to-day. All well. September [illegible] J. H. Hart, a steerage passenger from [illegible], jumped overboard. The body was not recovered.

The officers of the tug [illegible], just returned from the wreck of the Costa Rica, report that it will be made to save a portion of the [illegible] at the weather [illegible].

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 18, Evening.—The latest intelligence from the steamer Costa Rica indicates she will be a total wreck and that but little more of her cargo [illegible] saved.

Henry McRea of San Rafael [illegible] the 15th. He was last seen on Montgomery street in this city. He had $2,000 in his [illegible]

The Chilean [illegible] of this city celebrated the sixty third anniversary of the independence of Chile to-day by firing 63 guns at Market street wharf.

Boss Tweed made the tour of the Chinese quarters last night.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Sept 18.—Boats returned from the wreck of the Costa Rica to-night report eighteen feet of water in the hold. [illegible] lay low twenty [illegible]. There is no hope of saving her or any more of the cargo. The steamer Senator has returned with some of the cargo and a portion of the furniture from the saloons.

A fire broke out in a house [illegible] this evening. Damage about $300.

The Coroner's inquest in the case of Mrs. Frank [illegible] continued till to-morrow. [illegible] testimony shows that her son Antonio had been in the habit of beating and ill-treating his mother. Beyond that there is no proof that he murdered her.

Interior California.

SAN DIEGO, Sept 18.—Hon. Wm. N. Robinson, the defeated Democratic candidate for Assemblyman, has lost his reason. It is supposed to be on account of the exposure and excitement during and previous to the election and the reaction when his defeat was ascertained. The papers will be made out and he will be sent to Stockton.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18—3.40 P. M.—Nearly as large a crowd was present as yesterday. Both stands were filled and a large number of ladies were present. The first race was closely contested, and was won by Thornhill in two straight heats, Nell second, and Osceola third. Time 1.44. In the second heat, a good start was effected and it was a close race towards the finish between Thornhill and Osceola, the former winning by half a length. Time 1.43, which is a repetition of that made by him on the 4th of July over this track. Thornhill gets the first money, Osceola the second, and Nell the third. The mile and a half dash was won easily by Alpha, beating Little Agnes. Time 2.47.

STOCKTON, Sept. 18.—Everything will be in readiness Saturday for the reception of stock to be entered for premiums at the San Joaquin County Agricultural Fair, which commences here on Tuesday, the 23d inst. The Fair promises to be largely attended. The speed programme is excellent and every preparation is being made to accommodate visitors and exhibitors.

There is very little wheat offering; quotable at about $2 20 to $2 25.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept 18.—Telegraphic communication between this place and Anaheim was opened to-day over the new line just completed by the Western Union Telegraph Company.

SACRAMENTO, Sept 18.—Six thousand persons were in attendance at the races to-day. Pacing race for a purse of $600, mile heats, best three in five: Jim Brown, 3-1-1-1; Prussian Maid, 1-3-2-3; Lady Sinclair, 2-2-3-2. Time, 2:19, 2:26, 2:21½ and 2:21.

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

[From the Statesman of September 18th.]

Board met pursuant to adjournment. Present, a full Board.

The minutes of last meeting read and approved.

Answers to inquiries by the Board as to why assessment rolls were not in were received from B F Caufield, Oregon City; J. J. Williams, Roseburg; W. G. Pittenger, Hillsboro, and B W Wilson, Corvallis, making explanations and promising expedition in forwarding the rolls.

A motion was made and carried reconsidering the action of the Board in relation to the defective roll of Yamhill county, and the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That inasmuch as the B[illegible] Equalization for the counties of Yamhill, [illegible]son and Clackamas have failed to observe the request contained in Rule 3 of the rules for the observance of County Boards of Equalization, which reads: "That the tabulation of the statistics of assessments by the State Board may be expedited, it is requested that you cause all the columns of the assessment roll to be added up and the aggregate shown"; therefore that the Clerk of said counties of Yamhill, Jackson and Clackamas be requested to transmit forthwith for the use of the State Board the aggregates of the amounts and value of each kind of property, personal as well as real, with sums total of indebtedness and exemption in each of the counties in accordance with said rule.

The assessment roll of Douglas county being under examination and being found materially defective, the following resolutions were passed:

That the assessment roll not being in accordance with Sec 17 of the revenue laws of this State, and as presented will to some extent defeat the State Board.

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board correspond with the County Clerk of Douglas county with a view to ascertain the most speedy and effectual mode of correction of the assessment roll.

Resolved, That the Assessor of Douglas county for the year 1873 has failed to perform his duty as required by law, and that the County Board of Equalization for said county be informed of the proceedings had in this matter.

It is ordered that the County Clerks of the counties where assessment rolls have not been received be requested by letter to foot up all the columns and show the result in a tabular statement at the end of the roll.

Board adjourned.

ANOTHER RAILROAD TO THE WEST.

THE CHIEF ENGINEER'S STATEMENT OF THE CONDITION OF THE ENTERPRISE.

A number of gentlemen interested in the projected Continental Railway Company assembled at the office of the Company, No 20 Nassau street, yesterday afternoon to listen to a statement from the engineer of the company giving in detail the advantages proposed by the new line. The President, Commodore Dodge, was present with other directors. Mr Abbott, the engineer, after giving statistics showing the extent and population of the New England, Middle and Western States, said that the Continental Railway Company had conceived the idea of building such a line as would bring the commercial interests of the Western States into direct communication with the city of New York instead of Baltimore and Boston. It was proposed to build a road direct from this city to Council Bluffs which would be shorter than any other line by [illegible] miles. The Company had had the plan under consideration for three years past, surveys had been made and all the necessary legal questions disposed of. So far the gentlemen interested with building the line had contributed $1,000,000 and now that all the preliminary arrangements were completed work would soon be commenced. As soon as this could be accomplished the vast products of the West would be diverted from their present market channels and this city would reap great advantages from the change. Mr Abbott contended that when such roads as [illegible] built, such as the Pennsylvania Central with its connections, the Erie, New York Central and Lake Shore and others, the directors did not attempt to construct a great trunk line, but in uniting with the West [illegible] only to build local lines for passenger traffic. Hence Chicago, Baltimore, St Louis, Cincinnati and other cities had been greatly benefited by their connections with New York. The farmers of the West were already [illegible] their transportation to the market where they might command [illegible] exchange of produce, and they would [illegible] the line which would afford the best and cheapest facilities for getting there, [illegible] central market. The great mass of [illegible] freight was in the West, thereby the saving of 200 miles [illegible] from the western boundary of Pennsylvania and this city [illegible] distance. Mr Abbott gave the opinion of all practical engineers that no railroad could overcome twenty feet of ascending grade to the mile with [illegible] the equivalent of a mile of dead level road. The New York Central was [illegible] between Albany and [illegible] 11,000 feet in grades. By the new line it was proposed to cross the Alleghanies at [illegible] 1,440 feet above the [illegible] would be far less than any existing line. Mr Abbott concluded his lengthy explanation as to the objects of the new line by saying that between this city and Chicago 128 miles would be saved, and to Council Bluffs 2[illegible]. The road will have but light curves and will be used mainly as a through trunk freight line. There will be a double track to Chicago and a single one to Council Bluffs. In addition [illegible] of 100 miles but 800 feet in one distance will be consumed than by any [illegible] line. The Company he said had 100 miles graded in Ohio and Indiana and 300 miles of right of way secured. Ten million dollars had also been promised in different States towards constructing the line and it was intended to run the line twenty to fifty per cent cheaper than any existing line. The following gentlemen are at present acting as officers of the Company: Edward Dodge, President; J. M. Coleman, Secretary, and the following-named Directors: Ex-Governor Bigler and F. W. Hughes of Pennsylvania; George Greene of Iowa; F. V. [illegible] of Illinois; R. J. Dwiggins of Indiana; W. B. Foble and J. R. Butler of Ohio. The cost of the road is estimated at from $17,000,000 to $180,000,000.—N. Y. [illegible], Sept 3d.

"CONTRABAND OF WAR."

General Butler has long enjoyed the honor of originating the military legal principle that the slaves who sought our protection during the war were contraband of war, but in a communication to the Transcript of yesterday a Massachusetts soldier of two wars claims the credit for himself, and gives a spirited narrative of the circumstances in which he used it. The writer, then commanding a company he had raised, was ordered to Fortress Monroe in 1861. Soon afterwards General Butler was made commandant at the fort. There were great numbers of fugitives in the camp, some of whom were taken as private servants by the officers. The writer had for his servant one Luke, who had in the fort with him a wife and three children. Not long afterwards Colonel Mallory, a prominent Virginia secessionist, and several other Virginians came to the fort, demanding their negroes. They were told by General Butler that they might have them if they would take the oath of allegiance to the United States. Report of this got abroad among the freedmen and caused great consternation. Luke had been a slave to a neighbor of Mallory, and had been recognized. He came to the Captain who writes the communication and narrated the circumstances, at the same time declaring that he would kill his wife and children and himself before he would return to slavery.

"In the course of the conversation the captain, who was a lawyer by profession, ascertained that Luke had been set at work upon the rebel fortifications and at once told him that he could not be sent back, that neither General Butler nor the President could return him to his master, because having been set to work as a laborer on the fortifications he had been made a [illegible] of war precisely as a horse or an ox used for like purposes would be. This purified Luke, who, as may be supposed, informed his friends of the new light he had received and the new tenure of his security. The next day the captain was summoned before the General at headquarters. The scene following is thus described:

He (General Butler) was sitting at the large table in the audience room facing the entrance, and all his staff, with some officers of the Fourth United States Artillery, ranged in a semicircle in front of him. Things wore a [illegible] and said [illegible] in a loud and aggravated voice he said:

"I understand, Captain T——, that you have been telling the negroes here that they can't be sent back to their masters. Now, sir, I want to know by what authority you have told them so?"

Looking the General straight in the eye that was on duty at the time, I said:

"By what authority, General Butler? By the authority of common sense."

At this the General broke out with a roar like a lion: "What do you mean by that, sir?"

The Captain then explains as concisely as possible the grounds of his judgment, and continues his narrative as follows:

At the first mention of the phrase contraband of war General Butler's whole demeanor changed; his arms fell upon the table before him, and his head was thrown forward so that I could not see his face, and so directed the most of my argument at the top of his head. Utter stillness pervaded the room. As I ceased speaking I glanced at the clock and saw it was just 11. I waited five minutes—General Butler neither moved nor spoke; ten minutes—he kept the same attitude; fifteen minutes—not a word or motion. The staff sat as silent and motionless as statues. At last I spoke:

General Butler, have you any further orders for me?

"Oh no sir! no, sir. No, Captain, you can go if you wish,"—this in a voice as mild and gentle as that of a sucking dove.

I went.

The next day General Butler issued a proclamation declaring the negroes contraband of war and confiscated to the United States—which was bad law, inasmuch as many of the negroes had never been engaged in overt acts of war against the United States or put to work on the fortifications, and some of them, quite a number, belonged to Union men (faithful to the end). But it was not a time to stand on trifles.—Boston Advertiser.

AN ADROIT ROBBERY.

With its unfailing fertility of resource the Figaro recounts the following extraordinary history. There are in Paris two or three women whose scandalous fortune has removed them from the demi-monde and placed them in a world apart. One of these women is notorious throughout Europe for adventures, and her diamonds are said to be worth eight millions of francs. Among the most intimate of her visitors was a Sir Joseph D——, a gentleman of distinguished appearance and perfect manners, whose advances were not discouraged by Madame ——. It would seem, however, that the fascinating Englishman sought her diamonds, for he turned out to be the leader of a band of robbers admirably organized. His plans were deeply laid. In the month of January last year he persuaded the husband of Madame —— (for she was married) that his rooms would be marvelously improved if the ceilings were painted with frescoes, and he recommended an Italian artist who came from Milan, and as one of the band, profited by his presence in the apartments to take impressions of all the locks.

A month afterward the Englishman persuaded M—— that his wife's diamonds were not secure and advised him to buy a safe from an English maker whom he could recommend. The safe duly arrived. At the end of two months Sir Joseph warmly recommended one of his friends, a jeweler of Munich, who was anxious to copy the magnificent jewelry for the Empress of Austria, and Madame —— granted the wish. Copies having in this way been obtained, a valet who was in the interests of the Englishman, having access to the depository of the jewelry by means of keys, gradually abstracted the gems and placed them by artificial ones. The [illegible] passed unnoticed until a friend [illegible] on the eve of a visit to L[illegible] a single stone [illegible] supposed [illegible] value. In some business [illegible] noted London jeweler [illegible] came in question [illegible] be a mere imitat[illegible] the trick, and [illegible]

OREGON.

Several fires have been raging in the woods the past week near Cornelius.

The schooner [illegible] still lies high and dry on the Sands of Tillamook.

The first frost of the season at Cornelius on Wednesday morning the 17th inst.

Four immigrant wagons which left the State of Minnesota last May passed through Albany this week.

On Tuesday evening Dr Geiger's house near Cornelius came near taking fire from a pile of burning straw near it.

There are fifteen horses in training at the Hillsboro Fair Grounds. Baskett is to arrive soon with two running horses.

William Russell concluded to fly his kite in the unincorporated town of Hillsboro, on the 16th. The Sheriff kindly housed Billy for a short time.

The steam sawmills of Astoria, as well as those of Knappton, are now kept about as busy as they ever were known to be at any time on orders ahead.

The McMinnville College opened on Monday last, with an attendance exceeding that of any opening terms heretofore, and with flattering prospects for the future.

A gentleman from Brownsville says the warehouses at that place are all full of wheat, and still the grain in the neighborhood is coming in in large lots.

Captain R Hobson's new wharf at Astoria will be 50 by 120 feet in size. Captain Flavel's new driver has been engaged to drive the piles for it, and began the work yesterday.

Mr R R Thompson has now nearly completed a line of telegraph, connecting with the Company's line near North Yamhill, and running to his farm in Yamhill county. Who wouldn't be a farmer if he could have such conveniences?

A correspondent says there will be a meeting of the farmers of Washington county at Hillsboro on Saturday the 20th for the purpose of organizing a Farmers Grange. Let there be a full attendance. If the farmers do not look after their own interests no one else will do it for them.

The recent surveys made in the northern part of Tillamook county have developed a country which is sure to attract settlers very soon. Of course there is nothing to suit those who are looking for fields ready to plow, but the man who is willing to work hard while opening up his farm can here obtain plenty of the best soil in Oregon.

The remains of Father DeCrene were followed to the burial place at St Paul by a large number of persons, the procession being one of the largest ever seen in Salem. Archbishop Blanchet performed the last sad rites, assisted by Father Fierens, who preached a sermon at the church in Salem, and Father Goens, who made some remarks at St. Paul.

The greatest preparation is being made to make the Washington County Fair the grandest affair of the season, the State Fair not excepted. Many new features in the examination of stock and commodities will be introduced, which are claimed by their originators to greatly facilitate matters. The exhibitions in all departments will certainly excel that of any former year.

The farmers of Howell Prairie, Marion county, are requested to meet at the Howell Prairie School house, on Wednesday, the 24th, at 8 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of organizing a Grange and sending delegates to the State Grange at Salem, on the 24th of this month. The State Deputy will be in attendance on the occasion of organizing the H P Grange. A large attendance is requested.

The Astorian says: "It has been suggested and we think with much propriety that the matter of the buoys in our harbor and river ought to be left to the care of the pilots, who are continuously sounding the channel in search of the best water. This is done elsewhere and we believe Oregon pilots to be as capable of judging right and wrong on their own grounds as those of other localities."

Dean Blanchard's mill at Rainier cut 21,000 feet of spruce in a day and half with 8 men recently. The stuff was out of a raft taken from this vicinity for Weidler's mill, but when Rainier was reached Blanchard's mill was chartered to do the work immediately and the order (which was for San Francisco) went out filled by the return steamship. Blanchard is now filling orders for the Astoria dock, Wallman and Corbett's buildings, and R. D. Hume, of the Bay View Fishery. So says the Astorian.

Mr Hutchinson of Tillamook has made arrangements for a large schooner to come to that place from San Francisco. She is expected about October 1st, and will take 1,000 bushels oysters, 40 cords of spruce bolts and the remainder in ship knees. This last item will open a branch of business for which Tillamook is well adapted and one which has proven profitable at other seaports in Oregon. The roots of the spruce tree in wet land lie at the surface and being bent in all shapes and sizes are very useful in ship building, as every crook finds an appropriate place.

A Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry was organized at Lafayette Sept 16, 1873, composed of the most substantial farmers of this vicinity with the following officers: A B Henry, Master; R H Lampson, Secretary; F Martin, Overseer; C I Royal, Lecturer; Emmett Olds, Steward; G W Knapp, Assistant Steward; C K Duvall, Chaplain; J L Fryer, Treasurer; N H Olds, Gate Keeper. This is a permanent organization under authority from the National Grange of the United States. All communications or inquiries addressed to the Secretary, at Lafayette, will receive prompt attention.

[illegible] Reporter says: "Some excitement was caused last week by the escape from the county jail of William Squires and his son James, who were awaiting trial next July on a charge of robbery. They had been in the new jail less than a week and finding their quarters uncomfortable took French leave. The jail is in the lower story of a strong wooden building and has neither door nor windows, entrance being made through a trap-door from the upper story. The trap-door was left open for ventilation and the prisoners managed to climb out, probably by the one standing on the other's shoulders. Reaching the upper story escape was easy and they went off in broad daylight, taking a padlock and small chain, doubtless as a weapon of defense. They took a canoe up Tillamook river, but left no traces in their flight from there. The Sheriff offers $100 reward, but the people don't want to catch them and have the expense of keeping them a year before trial."

THE TERRITORIES.

The Olympia Echo has closed its fifth volume.

Dolph Hannah is going to build water works at Tacoma.

Rich placer mines have been found on Front Creek, in Montana.

The Olympia Light Guards are armed by the Territory with $40 [illegible] leaders.

The ship John Jay arrived at Tacoma from San Francisco on the 13th. She will return with 400,000 feet of lumber.

A. G. Brown has the honor of being the first judicial officer in Tacoma. He has been appointed Justice of the P[illegible]

James Sullivan, who has been in jail at Salt Lake for killing Mike Garvey, has been admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000.

A man named McSorley has been put under $200 bonds not to force his [illegible] "attentions" upon the girls of Olympia.

The graders are at work on the Denver and South Park railway at a point in Jefferson county between the proposed towns of Gilpin and Morrison.

The schooner Clara Light arrived at Seattle on Sunday, 17 days from San Fr[illegible]. The schooner Asponay arrived in 19 days. [illegible] are now making their trips in very fair time.

The "sheep men" and the "cattle men" in Colorado are on the verge of an intestine civil war. The cattle men say that the [illegible] destroying the range, and are trying to drive them out. The civil authorities are [illegible] to interpose.

The war between the Common Council at Salt Lake and the Tribune waxes warm. That paper, speaking of the C[illegible], says: "This crushing [illegible] of a civic government, [illegible] not be endured. We do not recapitulate our grievances here; the task is an agreeable one, but [illegible] duty to give some direction to the indignation which fires our people's minds."

The Tacoma Tribune of the 4th inst. says:

Last night three persons—a mother, daughter and son-in-law—were captured on the steamer North Pacific while en route to British Columbia. The mother and her husband have for many years lived on the Puyallup, where they owned a [illegible] farm and raised a family of children. One of [illegible] the daughter referred to, recently [illegible] man, who complied with his w[illegible] and [illegible] in [illegible] of the family. The mother mortgaged the farm for $300. With this money and [illegible] the trio left their home in this county a few [illegible]. Shortly before leaving, the [illegible] attempted to stab his father-in-law with a [illegible]. Learning that they were coming down on the steamer last night from Olympia, the injured father and husband (whom we have known for many years as a sober, industrious, and every way worthy citizen) procured a warrant and had them arrested. The runaways are in custody.

THE FEELING IN THE COUNTRY

A Republican who never does anything but the [illegible] and who has heretofore refrained from taking sides in the dispute between different members of the party writes: "There is only one feeling among Republicans out here, in regard to the proceedings of the Albany Convention and that is disgust. Any man of good moral character who stands opposed to the Railroad ring coming out independent, would carry this county over Hiram and [illegible] both." He adds: "I have always been a friend of Mitchell politically, but I must confess his forcing this resolution through by federal patronage when he was warned as well by friends as by those he considered his enemies, that it would be disastrous if not fatal to the Republican party almost convinces me that you have been right all the time in charging him with a willingness to destroy the party whenever the success of his plans for personal preferment might seem to require its destruction. For his vaulting ambition hath o'erleapt itself this time. He has stabbed the party it is true but he has also injured himself more in the act than by anything he has done heretofore, excepting, of course, the wrongs he has sought to have endorsed by the party. His conduct appears to me like sheer insanity."

From Linn county a Republican who dates his connection with the party from the organ of the party itself, writes: "There is not one Republican in fifty in this county to indorse the immoral resolution. The people here approve the course of the OREGONIAN almost to a man, and those who opposed you before now say they believe you have been in the right all the time."

A member of the Convention, who took no active part in the discussion but cast his vote against it, says: "The feeling on the subject becomes stronger here every day. I think from present appearances there will be but few who will own that they voted for the Hipple resolution, after the 13th of October."

Sentiments similar to these are expressed in the letters we receive from all directions. The dissatisfaction is growing deeper and wider, as mature and sober reflection shows more clearly the position in which this resolution has placed the party. The indignation one correspondent says is more general, outspoken and determined, than any one can conceive who has not gone out among the people since the adjournment of the Convention. People have no fault to find with Hiram Smith personally. Of course, nobody considers him the best material for a Congressman under any circumstances, but he would not run much, if any, below the vote of his party, if he had no sins but his own to carry. But [illegible] cannot be led to make record evidence that they approve of the gross immorality and high crimes that the Convention has attempted to [illegible] Hiram Smith is to be sacrificed on the altar of Mitchell's selfish ambition, and that of his ring of Federal office-holders.

That is all there is of it, so far as the candidate is concerned. But to the Republican party the matter is of deeper concern. One man may be sacrificed, but how is the case to be met when in his mad ambition, the Senator asks all the Republicans of the State to become parties to his wrongs? There's the rub. You cannot vote for the candidate without voting for the resolution adopting his crimes. There is no way out of this dilemma that is not a most unpleasant way, so long as the choice is between Smith with the morally rotten sentiments contained in his platform, and Nesmith with his effete Bourbonism. Smith is known to be a friend of the railway monopoly, but in this respect, if reports are to be relied upon, Col. Nesmith stands in no better situation. Many conscientious Republicans feel that their only alternative of swallowing one of these nauseous preparations, is to refrain from casting their votes until the time comes when they can vote without dishonor.

THE BULLETIN'S LIE NAILED

For some time past the Bulletin has been in the habit of repeating periodically a charge that the editor of the OREGONIAN, while practicing law, had attempted to defraud an associate attorney. This we met with a prompt and unequivocal denial, and challenged the proof. This was not forthcoming, but the charge was repeated without giving authority. Such conduct, of course is beneath decent journalism, but it is not too low for the Bulletin. When the matter was first referred to by the Bulletin some months since the attorney who, when we were accused of having attempted to defraud, took pains to go to several prominent gentlemen of this city and say to them that the story had arisen out of misapprehension of facts by him and a letter he had written us in consequence, charging us with wronging him, and that [illegible] an attempt to found that he did us injustice he had did without solicitation on [illegible]. This [illegible] our part. But a few days since the Bulletin returned to the charge publishing a letter written to us by the attorney concerned with the evident purpose of having it appear it had been handed the Bulletin by him for publication. We again denied the charge unequivocally and stated, as our readers will remember that the gentleman who wrote the letter acknowledged to us within less than twenty four hours after its date that he had been laboring under a misapprehension of the facts and that he was satisfied the charge against us was not justified. And we again challenged the Bulletin to bring his evidence of the charge. This it declines to do but publishes an anonymous letter over the signature [illegible] repeating that it can be proved. It would be natural to inquire: Why then, don't you produce the proof when you are repeatedly challenged to do so, instead of repeating the charge through an irresponsible, because anonymous scribbler? But the Bulletin declines the attempt to prove its charge. It does however devote nearly a column of editorial to repeating the falsehood. The name of the author it has never yet given. We have, however, after some inquiry discovered how the letter reached the Bulletin. Judge W. W. Page is the attorney referred to, and when he wrote the letter he handed it to a fellow by the name of W. L. Williams to carry to us. This fellow made a copy of this letter and gave it to the Bulletin. 'Petty larceny' is written all over his face, and his conduct in this matter shows that nature makes her children right. He is a fit instrument to serve the purposes of the Bulletin. We have a good many [illegible] history in regard to this fellow which may be of use some time, but he is not our game just now. It is in accordance with the eternal fitness of things that he should purloin private letters and that the Bulletin should publish them.

This fellow Williams it is who stands father to the correspondence signed [illegible], but he did not write it. He cannot write the English language. H. W. Scott wrote the letter and the editorial. The same hand penned the lie and the comment. That he is the author of any statement has come to be regarded in this community as presumptive evidence that the statement is a falsehood. There is not another man in Portland who has the reputation of being such an unmitigated liar as this same Scott. This is the reputation he bears in Portland.

But we need not rest the case on Scott's known proclivities for lying. We will give him first the evidence he disputes, and then see if he will have the manliness to retract his false charge. Referring to our denial of the charge and our statement that the attorney referred to had himself acknowledged it to be unfounded, the Bulletin says:

> To convince this community of his innocence in that transaction or of the truthfulness of his explanation of it yesterday, let him present the acknowledged statement of the professional associate referred to. We are assured he cannot do so.

As we said before, the attorney referred to was Judge Page. Yesterday he handed us the following letter with authority to publish it:

PORTLAND Oregon Sept 18 1873.

W. LAIR HILL, Esq., Dear Sir: My attention has been called to publications in the Bulletin, concerning a business transaction between us. I have this to say in justice to you: that we had a misunderstanding and that you fairly and squarely met me, and upon full conversation about the matter and a complete understanding, neither your honor, truth or integrity could be attacked, impeached or questioned.

Yours truly,
W. W. PAGE.

This proves the lie home. Scott is a convicted falsifier—but it is not the first time that he has stood in that situation nor the second. Write another anonymous letter to yourself now, Mr. Scott, and then another column of editorial comments on the letter. But be sure of your proof. We should think it would be somewhat embarrassing, even to an habitual liar like you, to be thus caught in a deliberate falsehood.

CORRECTION

In making up the record of the men who voted in Convention for and against the polygamy resolution, we set down Mr. S. H. Claughton, of Lebanon, against the resolution. This was a mistake. He voted for it. He was not elected a delegate but got a proxy. He is postmaster at Lebanon.

The name of Mr. Tompkins, of Harrisburg, who stood up for the party against the Hippleites to the last, was given as O. H. Tompkins. It should have been O. P. Tompkins. Let the record be made up correctly; it will be useful yet.

Poor's Railway Manual for 1873-74 gives the following table of statistics of 425 railways in the United States:

Miles of railway	[illegible]
Cost	$3,159,[illegible]
Cost per mile	[illegible]
Gross receipts	473,241,0[illegible]
Operating expenses	[illegible]
Net earnings	[illegible]
Dividends paid	[illegible]

These figures are eloquent of a power that to-day is a tyrant in the land. It was created by the people and for the people, but instead of being a national benefactor it has been turned from its legitimate uses until it has become an engine of extortion and cruelty. The gross receipts equal the annual revenue of the national Government. The net earnings go to swell the enormous private fortunes of men who a few years ago were comparatively poor.

When Postmaster Filley of St. Louis levied a five per cent assessment on the salaries of his clerks for political purposes he met with a prompt rebuke from Washington. He was ordered to refund the money. Now he is acting very ungracefully, if we may believe a report from that city which says that a paper has been circulated among the clerks asking them to approve of Postmaster Filley's action and to commend him for his refusal to give the press or the public any information relating to the matter. It is said that some of the clerks have refused to sign the paper. There ought to be some Department regulation to afford these subordinates some kind of immunity from the persecution of their superiors.

A BULLETIN AGENT.—A correspondent writes us that he lately heard a Polk county man boiling over with indignation at the course of the Hipple Convention and its Hipple resolution declaring that he would not vote at this election. It transpired in course of conversation that this gentleman was agent for the Bulletin at his postoffice and took no other paper. The question arises: How did he get his opinions? What does the Bulletin amount to if it cannot influence those who read it exclusively? The gentleman said he read the Bulletin for news but did not let it manufacture his opinions; those he managed to regulate for himself. Such is the general [illegible] of moral [illegible].

FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT]

YALE, B. C., Sept 8, 1873.

The trip up the Fraser river from New Westminster to Yale is [illegible] of great interest. The steamer [illegible] commanded by Capt. [illegible] is well adapted for her duties. The river gradually narrows and deepens up its course, the current gets stronger, and many rapids have to be overcome, [illegible] nothing but a strong boat with powerful engines could [illegible]. This is [illegible] from the village of Hope to Yale, a distance of fifteen miles. The river [illegible] the [illegible] passing through the [illegible] mountains on both sides of the river [illegible] thousand feet [illegible] to the top with timber more or less dense. The mountains are full of valuable minerals. At such places as Sumass and Chilliwhack on the river are intervals of level country and extensive prairie lands well adapted for raising stock and cultivating large farms, and where [illegible]. Large bands of fine cattle are raised there and excellent and profitable farming in full operation.

THE TOWN OF YALE

Is the head of navigation on the Fraser river and is 110 miles from the ocean or Strait of Georgia. It is the place where drays and pack animals start with supplies of all kinds for the upper country and particularly for the Cariboo gold mines. From 1862 to 1866 and even up to 1870 the drawing and packing for the mines were of great magnitude and immensely profitable. From 1870 to the present time the mines have greatly fallen off, the mining population diminished from thousands to hundreds and drawing and packing and their profits have decreased in proportion. There are engaged in teaming, packing, and staging on the Cariboo road as follows:

23 Bullock teams using	[illegible] oxen
10 Mule teams employing	[illegible] mules
3 Horse teams employing	[illegible] Horses
[illegible] Horse pack trains employing	114 Horses
[illegible] Mule pack trains employing	[illegible] Mules
2 Stages employing	130 Horses
Requiring in all	1190 Animals

The freight charge is eight cents a pound for 400 miles from Yale to Cariboo.

The cost of an outfit for one of the best mule teams is as follows: Wagon $750; 12 mules $2400; harness $800. In all $3,950. Twelve good mules will draw two such wagons containing five tons each, making ten tons or 20,000 lbs. The two wagons weigh 4,560 lbs each, 9,120, making a total draft for twelve mules of 29,120 lbs.

The town had a large population during the "rush" to the gold diggings in 1858 and 1862. It is now run down to one hundred whites and two hundred Indians and a few Chinamen. The Hudson Bay Company has a store here. Messrs. Oppenheimer & Brothers have a large general store; they are enterprising men and do an extensive business with the mines; their sales amount to $250,000 in the year. Messrs. Lawrence & Bailey have a good general store; they are distinguished as forwarding agents to the mines and have some of the best mule and other teams on the Cariboo road. Mr. Bailey is the managing partner at Yale; he is a first class business man; has a fine family of children, a beautiful cottage and a cultivated garden of choice fruits. Mr. Nelson is a large and successful forwarding agent to the mines. Mr. B. Douglas has an extensive harness establishment. Mr. Mullen conducts a comfortable hotel. There are two large and successful saloons, and quite a number of neat cottages and cultivated gardens occupied by merchants and their families. The Chinese are well represented by three mercantile houses, who do considerable business and conduct themselves so as to secure the confidence of the trade and the general public. The Chinese are partial to British Columbia; they feel that the laws of the colony protects their lives and property in every respect as much as white men or the best citizens of the country. There are 5,000 Chinese in the colony; a large proportion of them are at the mines; they have representatives in the washhouse and in the kitchen of almost every public establishment and private family in the country.

BARNARD'S CARIBOO EXPRESS

Is one of the institutions of the colony. Yale is the headquarters and starting point of their stages for the Cariboo mines. They have 100 horses in constant running condition and three times as many at grass from which the wants of their stages are supplied. Their stages, horses and drivers are not surpassed on this continent for all the conveniences, comforts and safety that the traveling public require. The stages make the through trip from Yale to Cariboo, 400 miles, in four and a half days.

THE INDIANS IN YALE

Bear the same general character as in other parts of the colony referred to in former letters. They are peaceful, industrious and self-supporting; have comparatively comfortable houses, dress well, follow several industries and engage extensively in fishing salmon for the public and their own use. The number of salmon taken by them this season at the rapids [illegible] above the town was immense and millions more could have been caught. There never was such a run of salmon in the Fraser river as there was this season from April to August. They were selling at a hundred salmon for a dollar.

There are three Churches in Yale—Episcopal Protestant, Roman Catholic and Methodist. On last Sunday there was not a clergyman in town and no public religious service as generally understood. To the credit of the Indians they held three services; one in the Roman Catholic Church and two in the Roman Catholic Mission Church. All the services were conducted by Indians themselves, without any clergyman, in an orderly and devout manner. Alas for the training by Protestant clergymen, for as a rule where there is no clergyman present there is no public worship held. In the days of primitive Christianity the disciples went everywhere preaching the word. The missionaries of the primitive Church were known men, men that hazarded their lives and counted not their lives dear to themselves so that they might finish their course with joy; but in modern time the lame, halt and blind are considered good enough for the colonies and for many parts of the United States. It is little wonder that Christianity has made so little progress compared with the triumphs it would have accomplished if selfish, worldly minded and incompetent men had been kept out of the [illegible] office.

BURDETT ORGAN!

G. L. DePRANS,

Dear Sir:—The BURDETT ORGAN that I tried at your house, suits me better than any other reed instrument I ever heard. There is a variety and sweetness of tone in these instruments unsurpassed, in my opinion, and their popularity is very easily accounted for. FRANK GILDER,
The eminent American Pianist, Madame Anna Bishop Concert Troupe.

Indeed it [illegible] the credit to another. [illegible] she of herself was capable of such [illegible] lectures [illegible] she could [illegible] hundreds of dollars for her services [illegible] At the conclusion of the lectures she gave some psychometrical readings of character which were admitted and known to be [illegible] Mrs Chamberlain is an earnest unselfish advocate of our cause and greatly favored by the citizens of the spirit world. She has left here for Portland Oregon. She has an interesting family to support, and is deserving of the kindest and most liberal treatment wherever she may travel or sojourn.

EXHIBITION DRILL.—Mr Joseph Webber an ex-Chief Engineer of the Portland Fire Department but now a resident of Albany visited the city on Wednesday. Having expressed a desire to see the several steam fire engines of Portland in operation, an order was issued by the respective Foremen of Multnomah No 2 and Protection No 4 at the request of Chief Engineer Bruen for a special exhibition drill. Accordingly at 4 30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, these engines issued from the houses and were assigned their respective positions by the Chief Engineer. The new engine of Multnomah No 2 was stationed at the intersection of Alder and Second streets the old steamer of the same company at the intersection of Third and Washington streets and the fine new steamer of Protection No 4 at the intersection of Stark and Second. Five hundred and fifty feet of hose was attached to No 2's new steamer and only one section to each of the other steamers. At a given signal, the three steamers were set in motion and an instant later three streams of water were seen rising into the air far above the surrounding buildings. To lend more interest to the occasion three ex-Chief Engineers who have served at different times in that capacity in the Fire Department of Portland were detailed to hold the nozzles and direct the streams. Joseph Buchtel was assigned that duty [illegible] Multnomah No 2 (old engine). Thus [illegible] for the new steamer of that company [illegible] Albert Holman for Protection No 4. After playing about 15 minutes to the satisfaction of not only Mr Webber but the crowd of spectators, the steamers were taken up and sent back to the houses.

TURNED LOOSE.—Yesterday afternoon while the steam fire engines were engaged in throwing water a little episode occurred which afforded much merriment among the crowd of spectators. The nozzle of the end of the hose which was attached to the large new engine belonging to Multnomah No. 2 and of which all the members are so justly proud was held by one ex-Chief Engineer and a First Assistant, who likewise is an "ex". The length of the hose was 550 feet, but the force of that long column of water was such that the nozzle was wrested violently from the hands of the two persons and the water sent in a hundred directions. Several hundred persons were standing about the sidewalks. When the water was sent in among them there followed such a scattering as was refreshing to the sight. The two persons who had been holding the nozzle received a fearful dose of the playful element but amidst the blinding spray they rushed manfully for the hose and at length rescued it, but not until both were well soaked.

FROM THE EXPOSITION.—Mr P Selling who returned from Vienna on the last steamer, whither he went some months ago as Commissioner to the World's Exposition from the State of Oregon informs us that not only was the United States, as a whole, well represented in all her varied industries and interests but our young State was also well represented. About 400 prizes and medals were awarded American productions which is a fair recognition of her claims in industrial pursuits and also inventive genius. Mr Selling remained in Vienna about two weeks during which time he had abundant opportunity to witness everything of striking interest and to inspect the vast array of the products of the civilized world's industries. He spent two weeks in Paris and visited Munich London and other great cities of the Continent. He was absent from Portland about four months. During all his travels Mr Selling enjoyed excellent health and had a very pleasant time.

BIBLE SOCIETY MATTERS.—From the Advocate we learn that at a meeting of the Oregon Bible Society held on Wednesday evening, the Rev Mr Hetzler, agent for Oregon was present and stated the fact that it was the desire of the Parent Society that every portion of this State should be visited by local agents or colporteurs and a copy of the Scriptures placed in the hands of all who are not already provided. Reports from the colporteur now in the field showed that Columbia county and a part of Clatsop had been visited, and that he was now canvassing Tillamook. The Willamette valley was divided into two districts all south of Marion and Polk counties in one district and all north in another district, and Rev G W Roork was appointed as agent for the northern district and arrangements made looking to the immediate canvassing of Jackson Josephine and Douglas counties in the southern district or such portion of them as can be done this fall.

WIDENING FIRST STREET.—A few weeks after the fire the Common Council instructed by resolution the City Surveyor to make a survey of First street with reference to widening of it from Morrison to Montgomery. The report of that Surveyor was submitted at the last meeting of the Council and was adopted. The next action to be taken by the Council will be the appointment of viewers whose duty it shall be to make out an estimate of the damages and assessments. This report will be presented to the Council and after its adoption petitions and remonstrances against the proposed widening of First street will be in order. A number of the new buildings which have gone up since the fire on the west side of First street have been placed five feet back from the inside edge of the old sidewalk in anticipation of the passage of the ordinance authorizing the street to be widened.

FUNERAL PROCESSION.—The remains of the late Capt Wm [illegible] were followed yesterday to their final resting place in the [illegible] Cemetery by a large number of friends. A [illegible] [illegible] the procession moved slowly [illegible] toward the ferry landing [illegible] had passed [illegible]

AN OLD [illegible]—[illegible] We received [illegible] day a [illegible] copy of an old paper [illegible] which [illegible] Halsim was [illegible] times. This paper bears the name of New England [illegible] and the copy in question bore date of January 17— On the margin at the bottom were the following words: "Printed and sold by Benjamin Franklin in Queen street Boston where advertisements are taken." The paper is about one foot square, two columns wide, printed on coarse material in a rude and primitive style of the art.

[illegible] door of the house the inmates were awaken [illegible] kettle filled with clothes [illegible] [illegible] all sleeping [illegible] trans conflagration [illegible] not be kept on [illegible] are very [illegible]

NEW CISTERNS.—[illegible] terns have been [illegible] work [illegible] These cisterns are [illegible] constructed at the intersection of Seventh [illegible] and Morrison streets [illegible] will have a capacity of 8,000 gallons [illegible] been in progress during this week. It [illegible] yet been determined whether the [illegible] will be walled up with brick [illegible] made water tight by plastering, the inside [illegible] cement [illegible] sides. The materials of which they are [illegible] constructed will depend upon the [illegible] the soil. Mr Thomas Huntingdon is the contractor.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—The [illegible] [illegible] following particulars concerning the narrow escape of a Mr D Dunbar while making the ascent of Mount Hood a short time since. After crossing the great chasm the snow over which they had just passed gave way leaving a great abyss just behind them. A little beyond while attempting to ascend a steep and difficult place Mr Dunbar missed his footing and fell and slipped a distance of forty feet, being rescued finally with the aid of a rope. This so appalled the party that the attempt to reach the summit was abandoned. With great difficulty they succeeded in returning safely to camp.

REPORT CONTRADICTED.—Rumors have been circulated for some days past on the streets to the effect that there are several well developed cases of smallpox in the building attached to the Academy of the Sisters of the Holy Names in this city. This we learn, is entirely without foundation as no case has ever occurred upon the premises occupied by the Sisters. The rumor probably originated from the fact that a case of smallpox was discovered in one of the streets adjacent to the Sisters Academy.

NEW ICE COMPANY.—A new copartnership has recently been formed in this city for the purpose of engaging in the manufacture of ice. The gentlemen composing the new firm are Messrs J M G [illegible] Wm Weinhard and Philip Hornung. Arrangements, we learn have already been effected for the purchase of a large amount of machinery, freezing apparatus etc. This will arrive here in time to allow the firm to commence turning out ice early next spring.

WILL DISSOLVE.—A meeting of the stockholders of the Oregon Iron Works was held on Wednesday evening. It was determined by a unanimous vote to dispose of all the property—personal and real—of the corporation and to dissolve the Company. We learn that there is a strong probability of a well known firm in this city purchasing the Oregon Iron Works and continue operations. It is pretty well settled that the works will not long remain idle.

RUNAWAY.—As usual yesterday we had our regular runaway. It was a grocer's wagon this time. The team started off suddenly and the vehicle was capsized spilling contents and frightening pedestrians. After dragging the wagon a little distance the cuitan came to the conclusion it would stop, and it was a wise conclusion. Nobody was hurt and no damage done.

WILL BE PLANKED.—The owners of property abutting on A and Vine streets between Front and First intend soon to plank those streets. They propose to adopt the style of roadway laid down on G street. When the necessary alterations have been made to First street at the intersection of these three streets, the proposed improvements will be made.

MONTHLY CONCERTS.—At the meeting of the Teachers of Hall street M E S S they decided to hold monthly concerts for the benefit of the school. The public are cordially invited to be present at the first one to be given on the first Monday evening of next month. The committee are busy preparing the best productions for the occasion.

PARALYZED.—We learn by an exchange that Mrs Cornelle was stricken down with paralysis a short time since in San Francisco. She is perfectly helpless and unable to move her lower extremities. Mrs Cornelle visited this city last winter in company with a variety troupe. Her friends will [illegible] learn of her great misfortune.

EARLY CLOSING.—In our advertising columns will be found a list of the retail merchants who have agreed to close each evening at eight o'clock excepting Saturday evening. The movement is an excellent one as it affords all interested an opportunity to take a breath of fresh air after the day's work is done.

NUMBER OF ARRESTS.—Crime appears to be on the increase judging from the Police Court records. During August [illegible] arrests were made. Thus far during September 107 arrests have been made. Before the end of the present month the number will probably exceed that of the preceding one.

SMOKE.—Immense clouds of smoke were observed yesterday rising from the timber several miles east of the city near the base of Mount Tabor. We had no means of ascertaining what was the cause of the fire and smoke but should not wonder to hear that some buildings in that vicinity were destroyed.

CASTINGS.—Mr Fox of the Willamet Iron Works who has the contract for furnishing the castings for the State Capitol forwarded on Monday the second installment of iron. The castings consisted of window casements, lentiles etc. The third installment will be sent up in about two weeks.

[illegible] Catholic Sentinel

We are gratified to learn that the Father Mathew Society of this city has been admitted [illegible] the Catholic Temperance Union [illegible] convention of temperance societies in the Union [illegible] to be held in New York in the [illegible] of October.

The corner stone of the Catholic Orphan Asylum under the auspices of the Sisters of Charity Vancouver will be laid on next Sunday at half past two o'clock P M. Right Rev A M A Blanchet will officiate [illegible] sermon and doubtless suitable arrangements will be made whereby a large number of the Catholics of this city and vicinity can assist at the impressive ceremonies.

We hope the Father Mathew Temperance Society which bears the honored name of the Irish apostle of temperance will not permit the 10th of October to pass by without making some demonstration in honor of the great Irish apostle. We notice in our exchanges that all over the Union the temperance societies are about having a great jubilee and in many instances there will be even grand demonstrations.

Three Sisters of Charity of the House of Providence—Sister John of the [illegible] Sister M Hyacinth and Sister M Aurelia—left Vancouver last Friday morning to open a new mission at Colville for the education of children in the reservation there. This is the third mission of their Order among the Indians on this coast. We learn also that three Sisters from the Mother House in Montreal, Canada will soon replace those who went to Colville.

OUT DOOR SPORTS.

We learn that Pratt of the Clackamas Club, has joined the College Club.

Will the College Club state a time and place for the final game with the Pioneers? That is what the Pioneers want to know. Let the College Club answer.

The old time players of the Pioneer Club have consented to enter into a contest with the present champions. Among the players we find George and James Steel, Wm Wallace, Warren Wallace, Van Cook and H Quackenbush, Will Lalugh and Geo A Sheppard. Won't there be a crowd to-morrow on the grounds west of the Academy?

AMUSEMENTS.

The Hibernian Benevolent Society of Portland purpose erecting soon a large fine hall on the lot recently purchased by them at the corner of Sixth and Washington streets. For the purpose of raising funds with which to carry on the work the Society have determined to give a concert and ball on the evening of the 2d of October. One characteristic feature of the concert will be the fact that all the music rendered on the occasion will be the soul stirring national melodies of Ireland. Many leading amateurs of the city have already tendered their services for the evening.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Mr [illegible] A Cronin, attorney at law, has removed. See card.

Several new ads appear to day. Our readers will consult them.

THE WAR SHIP OF THE FUTURE.—The London Times has the following: The preparation of designs for the war ships of the future is making considerable progress and the application of the science of hydraulics to the art of gunnery will in these designs receive considerable development and prove in practice of very great assistance in facilitating the working and loading of the monster weapons with which the turrets of the ironclads will be armed. These guns will far surpass the most powerful artillery at present in existence—the Woolwich Infants of thirty-five tons weight, and a bore of twelve inches in diameter and the great guns which Krupp is now making for the Germans being alike eclipsed by the new weapon which will have a bore of nearly fifteen inches and weigh sixty tons. These guns will be built upon the system which originated and has now been in such successful operation at the Royal Gun Factories, Royal Arsenal Woolwich for several years—by coiling up coils of wrought iron in a steel tube, a system which insures the greatest possible strength and immunity from danger of bursting and practically imposes no limit to the size of the guns. They will be fitted with a movable breech loading arrangement. The Woolwich Infant will throw a 700 pound shot six or seven miles, the new gun will hurl a projectile weighing 1 100 pounds (half a ton) over a range which has yet to be determined. As the antithesis of this enormous gun the new steel mountain gun has just been placed in the model room of the Royal Gun Factories. This gun weighs only 200 pounds but it can fire a shell of seven pounds with good effect up to 3 000 yards, and with its little carriage is designed to be conveyed on the backs of mules, for which pack saddles are specially constructed. It is also admirably adapted for boat service.

ON MONDAY EVENING next classes will be formed at the Academy, corner Seventh and Jefferson street for the special benefit of boys and young men engaged in business during the day. Terms for Common and Higher English $1 a per week. Ancient and Modern Languages extra. A beginning class in Phonography on Monday Wednesday and Friday evenings. Course of 24 lessons $7.

THE PAWNEE SIOUX BATTLE

The correspondent of [illegible] paper [illegible] in the [illegible] the [illegible] Sioux and Pawnees [illegible] About the beginning of the present century the Sioux and Pawnees were friendly. A young Chief Spotted Tail's father was then at the head of the combined Sioux nation [illegible] ration of the Pawnees. He determined upon their destruction and with the cunning of a savage [illegible] for the Pawnees. In the fall [illegible] Corn Feast and invited all the Pawnees to join him. While the braves were feasting the wily Chief detached 100 warriors who hurried to the defenceless Pawnee village and slew all the old men women and children to the number of 1 000 souls. When the Pawnee warriors returned home and found out what had happened they were filled with rage and implacable hatred. The whole nation rallied and marched to the Nebraska river where a great battle was fought and the Sioux completely defeated leaving nearly 1 000 dead warriors on the field. The next year the Sioux rallied their warriors [illegible] the Arapahoes and Cheyennes [illegible] their united force marched to the North [illegible] river where at a point just below where the town of St Paul now stands the Pawnees met them and a battle lasting three days was fought. This time the Pawnees were defeated losing over 1000 warriors slain. Since then the hatred between the two tribes has been intense and no sooner do Pawnees hear of Sioux being on their hunting grounds than they begin to paint with rage, begin their war songs and never rest until a battle is fought. The correspondent writes that on Tuesday last (August 19th) the Pawnees were reported passing westward in large numbers near old Fort Kearney and fully equipped for war. On Friday they were moving in strong force toward the Republican where they expected to be joined by their allies and then give battle to the Sioux. They avowed their determination to be revenged on the Sioux for the slaughter of their women and children on the 5th of August and unless the strong arm of the Government interferes we shall soon hear of another great Indian battle being fought somewhere near the Republican or Frenchman's Fork.

D F Powell Assistant Surgeon U S A gives the following particulars of the Sioux Pawnee battle:

I was scouting with Capt Charles Meinhold and Company B Third Cavalry on the Republican when on the 5th of August a party of Pawnees came galloping up to us and told Capt Meinhold that about 1 000 Sioux warriors had attacked them while [illegible] the Republican and Frenchman and had killed sixty of their braves women and children. We marched nearly twenty miles before reaching the battle field. It was a horrible sight. Dead warriors lay grim in death with bows still grasped in their stiffened fingers. Suckling infants were pinned with arrows to their mothers breasts. Some lay on the ground dead from ghastly wounds made by knives. Others presented to us their skinless heads, the red blood glazed upon the skull where the scalp had been torn off. In a canyon, as we rode up, the first object that attracted our attention was a dead squaw, and as we advanced along the ravine we counted fifty nine other dead bodies. They were in every possible position, having fallen where shot and apparently expired in great agony. One squaw with her pappoose was found in the weeds badly wounded but still alive. We made her as comfortable as possible and proceeded up the ravine but when we returned the baby was dead and had on its head marks of fresh violence. The mother had killed it to save it from further pain.

SMALL POX.

DOCTOR BORZEAL'S SMALL POX REMEDY. SAMUEL CORWIN, Proprietor, can be procured at all the Drug Stores in this city at the present time. As this medicine is proving an invaluable boon to those afflicted with that disease, no person should neglect the present opportunity of providing themselves with this valuable antidote.

Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

Portland Oregon Aug 2 1873

MR. SAMUEL CORWIN, Sir: In justice to myself and for the benefit of those who may be afflicted with the small pox I make the following statements. [illegible] I became very ill [illegible] in my head, back and limbs, which continued [illegible] in severity for three [illegible] [illegible] and I began to break out [illegible] all my body with what proved to be [illegible] I procured of Dr Fresler of the Central Drug Store a bottle of your small pox remedy [illegible] ing the severity of the attack I [illegible] medicine myself [illegible] according to [illegible] paying direct [illegible] but in about [illegible] three days all pain and fever disappeared. My recovery was extremely rapid, notwithstanding frequent exposures by moving about from place to place while in a high fever, which is considered fatal in that disease [illegible] that under the ordinary treatment for that disease I would not be living to-day. [illegible] [illegible] about two and a half [illegible] [illegible] than was necessary [illegible] until a thorough cure was effected.

COLEMAN'S EUCALYPTUS

Dr. I. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medical qualities of the Eucalyptus which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medical utility, having been [illegible] the sole [illegible] remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY [illegible] and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings and cures them by its alterative, healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and [illegible] such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHŒA, etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco in 1871 and 1872, where he had an ample facility for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the proper [illegible] results and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful, yet harmless, febrifuge and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies of those diseases are entirely avoided.

FOR PHYSICIANS Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1 lb bottles.

THE FORTUNES OF THE LATE DUKE OF BRUNSWICK.

[illegible] The illustrious and eccentric [illegible] His Serene Highness Charles Frederick George Augustus William, Duke of Brunswick [illegible] present century [illegible] single [illegible] of sympathy [illegible] longed to the class of [illegible] princes now [illegible] extinct [illegible] the despotism of Louis Quatorze [illegible] the vices of his effete brother, the Duc d'Orleans. The Duke of Brunswick was the last waif which the [illegible] of French fashion left on the soil of Germany. His [illegible] existence began when Goethe and Schiller were in the zenith of their literary career, and the reaction across the Rhine against Versailles and all its works had well set in. This reaction was greatly aided by the victories of the French armies under the generals of the republic and the first Napoleon. The battle of Jena took place when the Duke, who died on Monday at Geneva, was two years old. On the day following the one on which the news of it reached Brunswick he was hastily transported to Sweden, where, at the age of four, he lost his mother. From her hands he passed into the tutelage of a French emigre—a marquis who was brought up at the feet of the Marshal de Richelieu. The young prince's father, the organizer of the Death's Head Brunswick Hussars, was too much absorbed in military schemes to counteract the teachings of the [illegible] nobleman. Quatre Bras, at which the founder of the Black Regiment fell, placed Charles Frederick at the head of the duchy. The youthful heir became, pending his minority, a ward of the best wigged prince in Christendom, who was his uncle-in-law and first cousin. Accompanied by the French marquis, his Serene Highness went to London when the allied sovereigns were there, to study life at the Court of the Regent and finish his education. He was thrown into a congenial [illegible]. The example of the Prince of Tailors was not [illegible]. His Serene Highness's escapades and his green room adventures [illegible] in Brunswick [illegible] furnished a curious chapter in a cause celebre which was heard in Paris in 1870. In 1823 Charles Frederick, becoming the absolute master of several hundred thousand Germans, returned to live in his State. But after Carlton [illegible] found the ancestral Grand Hof a very dull place. With Versailles tastes improved [illegible] Brummel, it may be well conceived that he had but little sympathy with the earnest fellow-townsmen of Schiller, Lessing, and Spohr. The antique streets with their quaint houses offended his sight. He shut himself up in his palace with theatrical people imported from abroad, English tailors, French hairdressers, and quacks and charlatans who professed to have discovered the fountain of rejuvenescence. The library of Wolfenbluten, with its rare missals, its relics of Luther, its Louis Cranachs and Albert Durers, was visited but once by the sovereign duke, who was accompanied by an auctioneer. He was curious to know what its market value was, for he regarded it as a spendthrift nobleman does the trees planted by his ancestors. It was a resource for raising the wind on rainy days. The eccentric ways of the Duke and his arbitrary mode of governing drew down a remonstrance from the Diet. But he turned a deaf ear to his fellow-sovereigns, and went on as his whims and financial needs prompted. People will long put up with tyrants of grave exterior, but their patience is soon at an end when the prince who tramples on them appears in their streets in the equipage of a circus rider seeking to advertise his hippodrome. The quiet Brunswickers at length rose in revolt against their painted prince, deposed and exiled him. When he was thus bereft of his duchy he went to London, but finding the generation of Brummel passed away, he did not settle there. He eventually elected to domicile in Paris and bought the house near the Folie Beaujon in which Lola Montez lived when Mrs. Heald. His diamonds, his wigs, his extraordinary equipages, his avarice (for as years rolled on he grew miserly to excess), and his precautions against burglars were for a while the town talk. His peruke was changed once a month. In the course of the year the duke went through all the shades between jet black and flaxen. The complexion was made to suit the hair, which considering that there was a thick coat of enamel laid on the duke's face, was not a work of difficulty. The diamonds used to be exhibited in the Grand Opera or the Palais Royale Theatre. Some of them were stolen four years ago by an English valet skilled in the art of making beautiful for ever. His Serene Highness's favorite carriage was a yellow one, the color of a buttercup. He had a fancy for cream colored and pie-bald horses, and for pages in eccentric liveries. The siege drove Charles Frederick out of Paris, and the Commune prevented him returning to his rose-pink palace. He feared another insurrection and had an uncomfortable notion that the insurgents might seize him as a hostage. The last two years of his life were spent at Geneva, where it would appear he got into the hands of an American magnetizer.

The following is the text of the Duke's last will and testament:

To-day, the 5th of March, 1871, Hotel de la Metropole, Geneva. This is our will or testament:—We, Charles Frederic Auguste William, by the Grace of God Duke, Sovereign of Brunswick and of Lunneberg, being in good health of body and mind, declare:

1. That we revoke by the present all testaments or writings prior to this one. 2. We wish that after our death our executors here named shall cause our body to be examined by five of the most celebrated physicians and surgeons, in order to make sure that we have not been poisoned, and to make an exact report in writing, signed by them, of the cause of our death. 3. We wish that our body be embalmed and, if better for its preservation, petrified according to the printed method adjoined. We wish our funeral to be conducted with all the ceremony and splendor due to our rank of sovereign duke. 4. We wish our body to be deposited in a mausoleum above the ground, which shall be erected by our executors at Geneva in a dignified and prominent position. The monument shall be surmounted by an equestrian statue and surrounded by those of our father and grandfather [illegible] memory, after the design attached to this testament, in imitation of that of the Scaligeri at Verona. Our executors shall construct [illegible] monument [illegible] succession in bronze and marble by the most celebrated artists. 5. We make the condition [illegible] testamentary executors shall [illegible] into any sort of compromise with our [illegible] relation Prince William [illegible] wick, the ex-King of Hanover [illegible] the Duc [illegible] or any one of [illegible] family [illegible] We wish our testamentary executors to use every means [illegible] themselves in possession of [illegible] [illegible] which we have the intention [illegible] favor of our surroundings. 8. We declare that we leave and bequeath our fortune [illegible] chateaux, domains, forests, estates, mines, salt works, hotels, houses, parks, libraries, [illegible] quarries, diamonds [illegible] pictures, horses, carriages, porcelain, furniture, cash, bonds, public funds, bank [illegible] particularly that important part [illegible] which has been taken from us by [illegible] 1830, with all the interests, in our Duchy of Brunswick, to the city of Geneva. 9. We [illegible] Mr. George Thomas Smith, of No. 5 King's [illegible] England, administrator [illegible] general trustee of our fortune of [illegible] and we nominate him executor in chief of this testament. We likewise appoint M. Ferdinand Cherbuliez, advocate at Geneva. This testament is entirely written and signed by our hand and sealed with our arms.

DUKE OF BRUNSWICK.

The most strange part of this affair is that on the authorities searching the effects of the Duke, to see if there were any other documents of importance, another will was found dated in 1868, and apparently cancelled, which left [illegible] fortune to [illegible] Napoleon, the Prince Imperial of France. [illegible] [illegible] the Duke [illegible] will [illegible] [illegible] favor of the city of Geneva [illegible]

Gold in New York, [illegible]

Portland Legal Tender rates [illegible]

[illegible]

Exchange on San Francisco [illegible]

Wheat in Liverpool [illegible]

There is but little [illegible] usually enters on the fall trade with a [illegible] prospect and with a better feeling [illegible] than [illegible] in the first place, there is the advantage among [illegible] bankers of having a better understanding of the general [illegible] country and of having [illegible] settled financial policy of the Government. It is generally believed [illegible] that in the event of any unusual pressure [illegible] arising from combinations of peculiar [illegible] the Secretary of the Treasury will draw upon the retired $44,000,000 of greenbacks, and if the Gold speculators should attempt to advance the price of Gold unreasonably, the Treasury Department will avail itself of the right which Congress bestowed upon the Secretary in 186[illegible] to issue Gold notes or certificates. But it is not probable that there will be any occasion for a resort to so extreme a measure. The business of the present season will have to be conducted upon the basis of the currency and Gold now in circulation, and nothing is required but that every man shall exercise a proper discretion to insure for the country the most prosperous fall trade it has ever known.

The failure of Jay Cooke & Co., the great bankers and heretofore reputed leading financiers in the United States, which is reported by telegraph this evening, if fully corroborated, will prove a severe stroke to the business of the country. The news reaches us too late for comment in these columns.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The week now under special review has been one of the most active in this cereal ever experienced in our market, and sales in the aggregate have been quite large, amounting to at least half a million bushels, and mostly at $1 ℔ bushel, though some has been bought in the interior at an advance of 10@12c on these rates. The present aspect of the market is not discouraging to holders, though the demand seems hardly so brisk as during the latter part of last week or the first of this. Quotations [illegible] are furnished at $2 ℔ cental. [illegible] lots which could be sampled an advance might be obtained.

FLOUR—The market is firm at the advanced rates and we note large sales [illegible] $[illegible] bbl in jobbing lots. Outside and country brands of extra quotable at $[illegible] superfine [illegible]. The local trade is quite active and the most of the State mills are turning out an excellent article from the new Wheat crop.

OATS—The process of threshing now in progress develops the fact that the yield will be even larger than was anticipated a few weeks ago. We are informed that throughout the Valley large fields which average 50 bushels to the acre are not uncommon and that 35 bushels are considered a short crop. As yet, however, the receipts in this market have been comparatively small owing to the fact that the demand for transportation for wheat has taken up all the carrying facilities. Buyers are freely taking all that offer at 45@46c per bushel, the latter for the white, the former for the black variety.

BARLEY—There are some [illegible] lots of the new crop at hand sufficient to show an excellent quality and good condition of the grain. The demand for export will probably be quite an active growing one during the season and fair prices are likely to be realized. At present quotations are firm at $1 40 [illegible] per hundred pounds. The local demand is liberally supplied.

FEED—No unusual demand is felt, but owing to the active demand for wheat and advance in flour prices manifest a hardening tendency. We quote bran at $16@17 ℔ ton; shorts [illegible] chop mill dillings, etc. [illegible] Figures favoring seller.

HAY—The receipts so far this season have been largely of loose timothy from farms adjacent to the city and down the river, selling at this time at $10@11 ℔ ton. Baled timothy is now coming forward in [illegible] supply at $12@13 ℔ ton.

POTATOES—We note a large supply on the market at prices varying as to quality. Choice varieties quotable at 40 cents ℔ bushel; common [illegible] cents.

ONIONS—The receipts have largely increased and the demand being dull some concession in prices must be made to effect sales. We quote good lots at 2 cents ℔ ℔.

APPLES—The large crop is manifest from the abundant supply of earlier varieties in the market. We quote at 40@50c ℔ bushel according to variety and manner of packing.

BACON—There is some improvement in the tone of the market, old stocks being partially worked off and receipts being light. We note no important change since our last review, though dealers generally hold at about one-half and three fourths a cent advance.

LARD—The demand for fresh Oregon make is brisk at 10@12c in kegs, and [illegible] in tins.

BUTTER—The country merchants are sending forward considerable lots and the market is over stocked with a sorry article while choice for table use is yet quick sale. Prices range from [illegible] 25c ℔ ℔ according to quality.

EGGS—Our market is quiet and prices steady at 25c ℔ dozen. Receipts about equal to the local demand.

CHICKENS—We quote fat grown hens and roosters at $4@4 50 ℔ doz. Last spring's chickens [illegible]

DRESSED HOGS—The demand is limited and though offers are few prices are weak at [illegible] ℔ head.

BEEF CATTLE—We quote at [illegible] ℔ ℔ dressed, on foot, and a fair demand for choice lots of young cattle.

HIDES—Shipments are increased and reports of an active demand at the East and in Europe sustains our market at 6 to 7c ℔ ℔ for green, 8c for green salted and 15c for dry, damaged lots 10 to [illegible] per cent off.

WOOL—The Eastern market is reported both by mail and telegraph as very active and prices generally inclined upward. Our quotations for choice lots are 21 to 25c ℔ ℔. Inferior 18@[illegible]c. All offering is freely taken at current rates, and better prices are looked for when the fall clip comes in.

THE FORTUNES OF THE LATE DUKE OF BRUNSWICK.

[From the [illegible] Daily News, August [illegible]

The illustrious and eccentric owner of the Pink [illegible] in the Avenue de Friedland, His Serene Highness Charles Frederick George Augustus William, Duke of Brunswick W[illegible]fenbütten, was six years younger than the present century. Between him and what there was not a single link of sympathy, for he belonged to the class of German princes now fortunately extinct who copied the despotism of Louis Quatorze and the vices of his effeminate brother, the Duc d'Orleans. The Duke of Brunswick was the last waif which the ebbing tide of French fashion left on the soil of Germany. His feverish and vagabond existence began when Goethe and Schiller were in the zenith of their literary career, and the reaction across the Rhine against Versailles and all its works had well set in. This reaction was greatly aided by the victories of the French armies under the generals of the republic and the first Napoleon. The battle of Jena took place when the Duke, who died on Monday at Geneva, was two years old. On the day following the one on which the news of it reached Brunswick he was hastily transported to Sweden, where, at the age of four, he lost his mother. From her hands he passed into the tutelage of a French émigré—a marquis who was brought up at the feet of the Marshal de Richelieu. The young prince's father, the organizer of the Death's Head Brunswick Hussars, was too much absorbed in military schemes to counteract the teachings of the exiled nobleman. Quatre Bras, at which the founder of the Black Regiment fell, placed Charles Frederick at the head of the duchy. The youthful heir became, pending his minority, a ward of "the best wigged prince in Christendom," who was his uncle-in-law and first cousin. Accompanied by the French marquis his Serene Highness went to London when the allied sovereigns were there, to study life at the Court of the Regent and finish his education. He was thrown into a congenial soil. The example of the Prince of Tailors was not [illegible] His Serene Highness's escapades and his green room adventures and [illegible] in [illegible] he had in the New [illegible] furnished a curious chapter in a cause celebre which was heard in Paris in 1870. In 1823 Charles Frederick, becoming the absolute master of several hundred thousand Germans, returned to live in his State. But after Carlton-house and the Chinese [illegible] of Br[illegible] he found the ancestral Grand Hof a [illegible] place. With Versailles tastes improved [illegible] Dünnikel, it may be well conceived that he had but little sympathy with the earnest fellow-townsmen of Schiller, [illegible]ng, and Spohr. The antique streets, with their quaint houses, offended his sight. He shut himself up in his palace with the [illegible]cal people imported from abroad, English tailors, French hairdressers, and quacks and charlatans who professed to have discovered the fountain of rejuvenescence. The library of Wolfenbütten, with its rare missals, its relics of Luther, its Louis Cranachs and Albert Durers, was visited but once by the sovereign duke, who was accompanied by an auctioneer. He was curious to know what its market value was, for he regarded it as a spendthrift nobleman does the trees planted by his ancestors. It was a resource for raising the wind on rainy days. The eccentric ways of the Duke and his arbitrary mode of governing drew down a remonstrance from the Diet. But he turned a deaf ear to his fellow-sovereigns, and went on as his whims and financial needs prompted. People will long put up with tyrants of grave exterior; but their patience is soon at an end when the prince who tramples on them appears in their streets in the equipage of a circus rider seeking to advertise his hippodrome. The quiet Brunswickers at length rose in revolt [illegible] their painted [illegible] deposed and exiled him. When he was thus bereft of his duchy he went to London, but finding the [illegible] of Brunswick [illegible] away, he did not stay there. He eventually elected to domicile in Paris, and bought the house near the Folie Beaujon in which Lola Montez lived when Mrs. Heald. His diamonds, his wigs, his extraordinary equipages, his avarice (for as years rolled on he grew miserly to excess), and his precautions against burglars, were for a while the town talk. His peruke was changed once a month. In the course of the year the duke went through all the shades between jet black and flaxen. The complexion was made to suit the hair, which, considering that there was a thick coat of enamel laid on the duke's face, was not a work of difficulty. The diamonds used to be exhibited in the Grand Opera or the Palais Royale Theatre. Some of them [illegible] four years ago by an English valet skilled in the art of making "beautiful for ever." His Serene Highness's favorite carriage was a yellow one the color of a buttercup. He had a fancy for cream-colored and pie-bald horses, and for pages in eccentric liveries. The siege drove Charles Frederick out of Paris, and the Commune prevented him returning to his rose-pink palace. He feared another insurrection, and had an uncomfortable notion that the insurgents might seize him as a hostage. The last two years of his life were spent at Geneva, where, it would appear, he got into the hands of an American magnetizer.

The following is the text of the Duke's last will and testament:

To-day the 5th of March 1871 Hotel de la Metropole, Geneva. This is our will or testament,—We Charles Frederick Auguste William, by the Grace of God Duke Sovereign of Brunswick and of Lunneberg &c. being in good health of body and mind declare:

1 That we revoke by the present all testaments or writings prior to this one. 2 We wish that after our death our executors here named shall cause our body to be examined by five of the most celebrated physicians and surgeons, in order to make sure that we have not been poisoned and to make an exact report in writing signed by them, of the cause of our death. 3 We wish that our body be embalmed and if better for its preservation petrified according to the printed method adjoined. We wish our funeral to be conducted with all the ceremony and splendor due to our rank of sovereign duke. 4 We wish our body to be deposited in a mausoleum above the ground which shall be erected by our executors at Geneva in a dignified and prominent position. The monument shall be surmounted by an equestrian statue and surrounded by those of our father and grandfather of glorious memory after the design attached to this testament in imitation of that of the Scaligeri at Verona. Our executors shall construct the said monument a[illegible] of the [illegible] our succession, in bronze and marble by the most celebrated artists. 5 We make the condition that our testamentary executors shall not enter into any sort of compromise with our unnatural relations Prince William of Brunswick the ex-King of Hanover his [illegible] or the Duke of Cambridge or any one else of our pretended family their servitors their agents or any other person whatever. 6 We wish our testamentary executors to use every means to put themselves in possession of our fortune remaining in the Duchy of Brunswick in Hanover or in Prussia in America or elsewhere. We [illegible] our executors to respect and execute all the codicils [illegible] which we have the intent to make in favor of our surroundings. 8 We [illegible] that we leave and bequeath our fortune, that is our chateau domain forests estates mines salt works, hotels houses parks libraries gardens quarries diamonds jewels silver pictures horses carriages porcelain furniture cash bonds public funds bank notes and particularly that important part of our fortune which has been taken from us by force and kept since 1830 with all the interests in our Duchy of Brunswick to the city of Geneva. 9 We leave to Mr. George Thomas Smith of No 228 King's [illegible] Chelsea, in England administrator general grand treasurer of our fortune of 1,000 000 and we nominate him executor in chief of this testament. We likewise appoint M Ferdinand Cherbuliez advocate at Geneva. This testament is entirely written and signed by our hand and sealed with our arms.

DUKE OF BRUNSWICK.

The most curious part of this affair is that on the authorities searching the effects of the Duke to see if there were any other documents of importance another will was found made in 18[illegible] and subsequently cancelled which left [illegible] his fortune to Louis Napoleon the Prince Imperial of France. Subsequent to [illegible] the ex-Empress is said to have [illegible] three several visits [illegible] Geneva to try to persuade the Duke to change his will [illegible] of her son but [illegible]. It is also said that the [illegible] Duke intended [illegible] in favor of the city of Geneva [illegible] will [illegible] have [illegible] their [illegible]

There is but little [illegible] that [illegible] will enter on the fall trade with a very encouraging prospect and with a better feeling among business men than has prevailed for some years. In the first place, there is the advantage among our merchants and bankers of having a better understanding of the general [illegible] of the country and of having become used to something like a settled financial policy of the Government. It is generally believed, says the New York Independent, that in the event of any unusual pressure for money arising from combinations of speculators to make it scarce that the Secretary of the Treasury will draw upon the retired $44,000,000 of greenbacks and if the Gold speculators should attempt to advance the price of Gold unreasonably the Treasury Department will avail itself of the right which Congress bestowed upon the Secretary in 18[illegible] to issue Gold notes or certificates. But it is not probable that there will be any occasion for a resort to so extreme a measure. The business of the present season will have to be conducted upon the basis of the currency and Gold now in circulation and nothing is required but that every man shall exercise a proper discretion to insure for the country the most prosperous fall trade it has ever known.

The failure of Jay Cooke & Co., the great bankers and heretofore reputed leading financiers in the United States, which is reported by telegraph this evening, if fully corroborated will prove a severe stroke to the business of the country. The news reaches us too late for comment in these columns.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The week now under special review has been one of the most active in this period ever ex[illegible] the aggregate have been quite large amounting to at least half a million bushels, and mostly at $1 ₩ bushel though some has been bought in the interior at an advance of 10@12c on these rates. The present aspect of the market is not discouraging to holders, though the demand seems hardly so brisk as during the latter part of last week or the first of this. Quotations to-day are furnished at $2 ₩ cental though for choice lots which could be sampled an advance might be obtained.

FLOUR—The market is firm at the advanced rates and we note large sales of leading brands at $6 [illegible] ₩ bbl in jobbing lots. Outside and country brands of extra quotable at $6; superfine and fine $[illegible]. The local trade is quite active and the most of the State mills are turning out an excellent article from the new Wheat crop.

OATS—The process of threshing now in progress develops the fact that the yield will be even larger than was anticipated a few weeks ago. We are informed that throughout the Valley large fields which average 50 bushels to the acre are not uncommon and that 35 bushels are considered a short crop. As yet, however, the receipts in this market have been comparatively small owing to the fact that the demand for transportation for wheat has taken up all the carrying facilities. Buyers are freely taking all that offer at 45@[illegible] per bushel, the latter for the white, the former for the black variety.

BARLEY—There are [illegible] lots of the new crop at hand; sufficient to show an excellent quality and good condition of the grain. The demand for export will probably be quite an active one during the season and fair prices are likely to be realized. At present quotations are firm at $1 40 @1 45 per hundred pounds. The local demand is liberally supplied.

FEED—No unusual demand is felt, but owing to the active demand for wheat and advance in flour [illegible] manifest a hardening tendency. We quote bran at $14@15 ₩ ton; shorts $18@20; chop middlings, etc. $[illegible]@28. Figures favoring seller.

HAY—The receipts so far this season have been largely of loose timothy from farms adjacent to the city and down the river selling at this time at $10@$11 ₩ ton. Baled timothy is now coming forward in [illegible] supply at $[illegible] ₩ ton.

POTATOES—We note a large supply on the market at prices varying as to quality. Choice varieties quotable at 40 cents ₩ bushel; common [illegible] cents.

ONIONS—The receipts have largely increased and the demand being dull some concession in prices must be made to effect sales. We quote good lots at 2 cents ₩ lb.

APPLES—The large crop is manifest from the abundant supply of earlier varieties in the market. We quote at 40@50c ₩ bushel according to variety and manner of packing.

BACON—There is some improvement in the tone of the market, old stocks being partially worked off and receipts being light. We note no important change since our last review though dealers generally hold at about one half and three fourths a cent advance.

LARD—The demand for fresh Oregon made is brisk at 10@11c in kegs, and 12@13c in tins.

BUTTER—The country merchants are sending forward considerable lots and the market is overstocked with a sorry article while choice for table use is yet quick sale. Prices range from 1[illegible] to 25c ₩ lb according to quality.

EGGS—Our market is quiet and prices steady at 25c ₩ dozen. Receipts about equal to the local demand.

CHICKENS—We quote fat grown hens and roosters at $4@4 50 ₩ doz. Last spring's chickens [illegible]

DRESSED HOGS—The demand is limited and though offers are few prices are weak at $[illegible] to $5 ₩ head.

BEEF CATTLE—We quote at 4 to 4½c ₩ lb delivered on foot and a fair demand for choice lots of young cattle.

HIDES—Shipments are increased and reports of an active [illegible] at the East and in Europe sustains our market at 6 to 7c ₩ lb for green, 8c for green salted, and 15c for dry; damaged lots 10 to 25 ₩ cent off.

WOOL—The Eastern market is reported both by mail and telegraph as very active, and prices generally inclined upward. Our quotations for choice lots are 24 to 25c ₩ lb; inferior 18 to 20c. All offering is freely taken at current rates, and better prices are looked for when the fall clip comes in.
